CARLOW
COLLEGE

Dear Principal,

Primary schools across County Carlow are invited to participate in an inspiring literacy initiative that will engage 4th, 5th, and 6th class students in the Right to Read Programme by Carlow County Council – Economic Development & Library Service, Carlow County Development Partnership, Carlow College, St. Patricks and Carlow Kilkenny Skillnet

As part of a coordinated national framework for literacy support, the Right to Read Campaign is designed to reinforce reading development and support learning both in and beyond the classroom. This initiative aligns with national strategies such as Delivering Equality of Opportunity in Schools (DEIS) and early childhood education programmes, offering continuity and targeted assistance for children, families, and adults with lower literacy levels. It also aims to build a sustainable, integrated literacy support model that is consistent across all local authorities.

To spark creativity and community engagement proud to announce the launch of a Short Story Competition for 4th, 5th and 6th class pupils throughout the county. Students are invited to submit a story on the theme “My Favourite Local Business”, accompanied by:

4th Class – Who’s your favourite author?

5th Class – What do you want to be when you grow up?

6th Class – What’s your favourite place or thing to do in Carlow?

Exciting prizes will be awarded to the top 2 entries in each category, and each participating pupil will receive a certificate recognizing their effort and creativity.

The Right to Read program understands that literacy skills are essential for individuals to realise their personal, social, and educational potential. Improving literacy standards is a national priority to ensure this basic right is afforded to all individuals.

Carlow County Council, through the Library and other services, including schools, offer practical supports to address the literacy needs in our communities and strengthen the delivery of high quality services for literacy skills development.

Through this competition we hope to increase the awareness and importance of Literacy in the community as well as engaging with primary schools in a fun based response. To support you and your school we have created short video explaining the competition and include the competition details.

We look forward to your participation in this project - the co-ordinator is Lisa Hutton, Carlow Local Enterprise Office who can be contacted on huttonl@carlowcoco.ie or 059 912 9783 for additional information, if required.

Right to Read Campaign

Literacy is essential for individuals to realise their personal, social, and educational potential. Improving literacy standards is a national priority to ensure this basic right is afforded to all individuals.

Delivering on this commitment to support and advance literacy levels sustainably into the future requires a collaborative approach between local authorities, community organisations and education bodies. A shared understanding of the service practices and structures which most effectively enable new and strengthened services is required. This will ensure that the support offered through this programme produces tangible outcomes for people and can generate long-term social, educational, and economic benefits both within local communities and nationally. The Right to Read Campaign is an initiative of Carlow County Council to demonstrate their firm commitment to literacy skills' development and strengthen their active engagement in literacy support.

The Right to Read Campaign benefits from the collective knowledge and experience of skilled staff in the Carlow County Council. Through its solid support structure, this programme will invigorate existing relationships and strengthen the partnership approach in delivering literacy support.

As local champions of literacy support and development, Carlow libraries will take a leading role in delivering the aims of the Right to Read Campaign. Libraries have the experience and resources to develop and enhance literacy activities in cooperation with other key agencies. Their position as a central service within communities, while operating within a country-wide network, makes libraries valuable catalysts for consolidating literacy support and activities throughout local government services. Indeed, the public libraries' strategy, Opportunities for All, represents a new era for libraries to deliver national objectives locally through a collaborative approach.

Carlow County Council aims to support the development of current and future generations as self-sufficient individuals with high levels of well-being, self-worth and strong basic skills to take advantage of employment opportunities. The Right to Read Campaign offers a practical and achievable route to support the diverse spectrum of literacy needs in our communities more effectively, collectively and sustainably and strengthen the delivery of high-quality services for literacy skills development.
